

The Herald

*Serving the Communities of Vermont's White River Valley
Since 1874*

‘Streams of Light’ Paintings Hang at BALE’s Gallery

| AUGUST 02, 2018

“The World is Round,” oil on canvas, is one of the works by Susan G. Scott on display at the White River Gallery@BALE in South Royalton. (Provided)

“Streams of Light,” paintings by Susan G. Scott, curated by Dian Parker, will be on display at the White River Gallery@BALE on South Windsor Street in South Royalton through August 26. An opening reception with artist talk will be Saturday, Aug. 4 from 4-6 p.m.

Scott’s landscape paintings come from exploring the stream that runs beside her woodland studio in Chelsea. Each summer, she sketches ankle-deep in water to convey the abstract privacy and intricacy of this natural space. In the winter months, she paints in her Montreal studio from these watercolor studies.

“Scott’s large, oil-on-canvas paintings, ‘Streams of Light,’ evoke the delicate open aesthetic of Asian watercolors, allowing the white of the canvas to convey light and space, along with her rich shades of undulating tone,” noted Parker.

A Canadian-American artist known for contemporary figurative painting, Scott was elected to the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts (RCA) in 2013. She has been in many solo and group shows, including three solo exhibitions that toured Canada—“Susan G. Scott: Works from 1974 to 1983; “Blindman’s Buff” (1988-91), and “Les enfants terribles” (2003-05). Her work can be found in permanent collections in Canada, U.S., and Europe.

Scott will be at the gallery on Sunday, Aug. 12 and Sunday, Aug. 19 from 2-4 p.m.

For more information, call the gallery at 802-498-8438. Gallery hours are Monday-Friday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. (call first); or by appointment. Contact Parker at dianparker9@gmail.com.

Copyright 2000-2018 The Herald of Randolph. All Rights Reserved.
<https://www.ourherald.com/articles/streams-of-light-paintings-hang-at-bales-gallery/>